Question: 86

----- is a work stoppage that is neither authorized nor supported by the union.

- A. Economic strike
- B. Wildcat strike
- C. Sympathy strike
- D. Cross the picket line

Answer: B

Explanation:

A wildcat strike is a strike undertaken by unionized workers without union leadership's authorization, support, or approval. C it is illegal.

Crossing the picket line means to go to work while other employees at one's place of work are picketing. An economic strike is a legal strike where employees strike in order to obtain some economic concession from the employer such as higher wages, shorter hours, or improved working conditions. The following strikes are legal under Section 7 of the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA): Economic strikes, in which employees attempt to pressure the employer to concede to their demands for improvements in wages, benefits or working conditions; and Unfair labor practice strikes, in protest of an employer's committing an unfair labor practice.

Question: 87

Employees at the Fawn corporation are canvassing for the establishment of the ----- principle in the disciplinary procedure of the company. The employees state that the principle provides that employees should be treated fairly, given clear expectations, and provided an opportunity to defend themselves for a dischargeable offense.

- A. Distributive justice
- B. Due process
- C. Duty of good faith and fair dealing
- D. Dual representation

Answer: B

Explanation:

In the employment context, due process involves two basic principles: that employees are entitled to know the nature of their alleged misconduct or poor performance, and that employees should be given a reasonable opportunity to respond to those allegations before any decisions are made regarding imposition of discipline. In the U.S.A., public employees that have a property interest in their job are entitled to pre-termination due process as a matter of law. This typically comes into play when there is a disciplinary action taken against a government employee whose employment terms are spelled out in a contract, often negotiated by a union.
